TO EXTEND LINE IN EARLY SPRING

I. & C. Officials Announce Today
Work Will be Started on Cincinnati Extension Soon.

AS SOON AS SURVEYS ARE RUN

Proposed to Get Estimated Cost of Building From This City and Greensburg.

CHEAPEST ONE MAY BE TAKEN
Announcement is Unexpected as it Has Been Intimated Extension Was in Remote Future.

Work will be started on the extension of the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction Company's lines to Cincinnati, just as soon as the surveying of the route from this city and the one from Greensburg is completed, according to an announcement made by Will Frazee, claim agent for the company, today.

The work will be started, it is hoped by the company, according to Mr. Frazee, early in the spring. This impression has always been given out by officials of the company that the time for the beginning of the work was very indefinite.

Charles L. Henry, president of the I. & C. did not come to the general offices here today as is his usual custom and could not be interviewed on the subject. In previous interviews given out by him on this topic he has always conveyed the impression that the extension was to be far in the distant and remote future.

But the statement of Mr. Frazee puts a new phase on the situation. When President Henry, accompanied by the directors of the line, several weeks ago went over the two proposed routes, one from this city by way of Brookville and the other from Greensburg by way of Newport and Harrison, Ohio, it was intimated that the officials planned to start the extension soon, but Mr. Henry denied that the extension was just as remote as ever at that time.

Mr. Frazee intimated today that the route would be extended over the cheapest route. That is, the line will be run over the route where the roadbed can be put in condition easiest and where the right-of-way can be purchased the cheapest. He inferred also, that distance would be taken into consideration.

It is a well known fact that three routes for extension are considered, the one besides the two already mentioned being from Connersville by way of Liberty and Hamilton, Ohio. The Connersville extension has been surveyed already as far as College Corner, Ohio, and it has been intimated that nothing further will be done on that survey. Surveyors are now working on the Greensburg extension, and as soon as they have completed that survey, they will come to this city and begin the survey of the route from this city by way of Brookville and Harrison, O.

Mr. Henry gave out an interview recently in which he stated positively that the route for extension would be picked until the survey of the local route and the one from Greensburg was completed. This leaves this question open and means that Rushville still has a chance.

With the announcement that the extension will be made so soon it will probably occur to some of the wide-awake business men of Rushville that now is the time to look to their laurels. Rushville is well organized to make an effort for the extension since the Rushville Retail Merchants Association is an effective, working body. Greensburg will make a strong bid for the extension, and in fact is already doing so.

The value of the extension being run from this city has been pointed out before. It will open up a rich territory from which merchants of Rushville could undoubtedly attract more trade than they now are. It will go through a territory which is not now connected with Rushville by any traction or steam line.

WEEK'S MEETINGS TO BEGIN TONIGHT

Simultaneous Services Will be Conducted Only in Four Protestant Churches of City.

REV. W. H. WYLIE GIVES TOPICS

The week of simultaneous meetings in the Protestant churches of the city, planned to follow the week of prayer union services, will begin in four of the churches tonight instead of five as was previously announced. The First Presbyterian church has decided to discontinue its week of evangelistic meetings for the time being. The services in the other four churches, the First Baptist, the St. Paul M. E., the Main Street Christian and the United Presbyterian, will begin at seven-thirty o'clock each night. None will be held Saturday night.

The Rev. W. H. Wylie of the Methodist church announced today the general topic for his sermons this week will be "Messages of Warning." Tonight his subject will be "If we Neglect" tomorrow night, "The Wages of Sin;" Wednesday night, "The Wrath of the Lamb;" Thursday evening, "The Unpardonable Sin" and Friday evening, "The Incomparable Loss." The music will be led by a chorus, directed by Dr. F. R. McClanahan, at the Methodist church and will be assisted by the Sunday school orchestra.

NO STEAM HEAT FOR COURT HOUSE

Plant Will be Shut Down For Repairs on Tunnel in Basement of Building.

THE OFFICES WILL NOT CLOSE

The court house will be without steam heat tomorrow and perhaps longer, because of the necessary closing down of the heating plant to repair the tunnel through which the steam is carried from the plant to the building. A leak in the tunnel in the basement of the building has caused a great amount of heat to be wasted and in order to make the repairs the heat will have to be turned off and the tunnel allowed to cool. Many have wondered why the steam has been allowed to escape through the man-hole on the south side of the court house and the explanation is offered that by letting the steam out there it does not condense in the basement. The court house will not be heated with gas or as best they can. It is announced that the public library will be closed tomorrow and on Wednesday and Saturday nights.

WEATHER.

Fair and colder tonight. Tuesday fair and not so cold.

LEGISLATION WILL NOT HELP

President W. A. Millis of Hanover College Declares Man Must be Made Over Inside.

MEN'S BIG MEETING TALK

Asserts Cure-Alls Offered Have Virtues But They Are Not Solution For Social Evils.

That all manner of legislation directed against the common social evils of today, termed as such by President W. A. Millis of Hanover College, will not cure them, was the assertion at the first of the winter's series of Men's Big Meetings at the St. Paul M. E. church yesterday afternoon. It was his message that men must be made over inside before anything will be accomplished in the war against vices that parade in the United States today.

President Millis said in opening his address that men of Rushville paid the city a compliment by turning out as they did yesterday afternoon. Not to hear him was their reason for attending the meeting, he said, but they showed their allegiance to the cause of Jesus Christ. He said it was his intent to talk on the betterment of society.

Jesus had to batter down prejudice of the Jews when He began His work on this earth. They were disappointed in the coming of the Messiah, he said. He pointed out they expected Jesus to come in great grandeur and pomp, as it had been taught, and then He would.

President Millis showed that Jesus preached to Jews that outward appearance amounted to nothing and that the inner man was the most important. He urged the Jews to remember that it is the in-dwelling life which is responsible and on which depends the outward action.

"Jesus was not a reformer as we think of one today," continued Mr. Millis. "But even at that He is the greatest reformer in history. He did not batter down institutions of His day and age as present-day reformers do with the exception of when He drove the money changers from the synagogue. He did not lay down laws to govern the social evils of those days. He realized the change should come in the inner man and He bade men to fear God."

President Millis pointed out there have been four periods of intellectual growth with a view to bettering the conditions of society. The first, he said, was in colonial times, the days of the old "blue laws." Those were the time, he recalled, when a set of severe and strict statutes were in vogue and men and women were compelled to obey them or be in danger of paying a severe penalty.

In the second period, that of the civil war, President Millis pointed out the country grew intellectually and began to realize the old system of strict laws would not cure the social evils. Then the opinion was current that freedom would solve the weighty topics of the age and the civil war was fought out.

Then came the period, he said, which might be termed the age of economic growth. In that time, the speaker declared, the idea was paramount that freedom from the vice which prevailed in the country would come with the doing away with vice. The opinion prevailed then that poverty was the base of all evil, he said, but it was soon to be a false prediction.

President Millis said the last period was that of institutions and laws through which the United States is now passing. He declared this is the age when an effort is being made to legislate goodness into the hearts of mankind with indifferent results. He pointed out that the country was legislating excellence into school teachers and men of all professions by making their standards higher yet no attention is being paid to the inner man, the part which counts.

In this connection it was the college president's startling assertion that education increases vice rather than causes it to decrease which is according to the popular belief. He deplored the division of secularism and education. Mr. Millis declared vehemently that serious evil was incurred by cutting away the religious feature of education. He decried the lack of religion in the public schools as well as in the higher institutions of learning.

In the case of the physician, the college president said, he was required to be proficient in his profession else he could not obtain a license, and that was the only account taken of him. He asked whether a man would have a physician turned loose in his Continued on page eight.

NEW RECORD ESTABLISHED

Temperature Fails to Rise Above Zero All Day Which Has Never Been Case

SINCE INFUX OF COLD WAVE

Bureau Says Today is Only Beginning of Lower Temperature Which is Coming.

A new record for the cold wave which came to Rushville as an uninvited guest ten or twelve days ago, was established today when the thermometer failed to rise above zero. This is the first time that the temperature has not gone at least a few degrees above the zero mark.

But this is only the beginning of another cold wave, according to the weather bureau, which is going to outclass all former ones in severity. The temperature is expected to go to ten below zero tonight and possibly lower. There is some consolation in the fact, however, that the weather forecaster promises slowly rising temperature tomorrow.

Thermometers in the sun today registered as high as ten degrees above zero. But they were unduly influenced, and it's not fair to count them. Thermometers in sheltered places, but which were not touched by the sun except for a brief space of time this morning, were unable to rise above the zero mark.

The temperature began to fall this morning after the sun was up in the heavens and it was colder at eight-thirty o'clock than it had been two hours previous. At six-thirty o'clock thermometers recorded the temperature at about four below zero and within an hour and a half the temperature had fallen two degrees. This is something which seldom happens as the coming of day and the bright sun tends to cause the temperature to rise.

And it was colder this morning at eight-thirty o'clock than it was all during the night. The mercury did not fall below four degrees below zero and most of the night the temperature was above zero.

Although the sun shone brightly all day the biting wind made the day a very severe one. Few people ventured out during the day, but there were more farmers in the city than were expected under the circumstances.

Yesterday the highest temperature since the influx of the cold wave was recorded when the thermometer stood at twenty-eight degrees above zero. The weather bureau predicted some relief yesterday and it came—but it proved to be of short duration.

BAD WEATHER CAUSES LOSS

Fourth of 1911 Corn Crop Still in the Fields and May Never be Gathered.

SNOW HELPS WHEAT ALONG

Farmers Lose Seed Potatoes as Result of Exceedingly Low Temperature.

That at least one-fourth of the 1911 corn crop in Rush county is yet standing in the fields was learned recently by a canvass of the county. Especially in the south and west part of the county is this true, while in the north and east a majority of the farmers have their corn in shocks and are waiting for an opportunity to share the same.

This unusual condition is brought about by the very unfavorable weather which the farmers have experienced for more than three months—prolonged warm weather of the fall season forced the farmers to wait for cold weather to shock or gather their corn. Frost did not come when expected, but in its place a couple months of damp and rainy weather, leaving the corn soft, the ground soggy and in such a condition as to make it impossible for the farmers to work in the fields.

Then came such a rush of cold weather and then a blizzard, until none but Eskimos could work in the fields more than a few hours a day. The farmers are now taking short turns into the fields and shocking and shredding the corn only when needed for purposes. It is expected that the present cold weather will prevail for a month at least and much of the corn will probably be left in the field to rot if the severe weather is followed by rain and old time February thaw.

Meanwhile the farmers are drawing heavy on their hay and oats.

The question among the farmers now is "what next?" First it was too hot, second the ground was too soft and now it is too cold. Several farmers are attempting to shred corn at the present time and a number of them on the other hand have abandoned the project.

It also has developed that a number of farmers have lost their seed potatoes as a result of the exceedingly cold weather, being frosted until they are only fit to be fed to the hogs. Many cellars and the old fashioned way of burying potatoes and also apples failed to keep them from freezing during the past week.

The snow is helpful to the wheat and the farmers are grateful for it, but those who have corn in fields have reason for worry, they say.

WATER DAMAGED RECORDS

Burst Pipe Made Clerk's Office "Some" Wet.

Water from a burst pipe did considerable damage this morning to the county clerk's office in the court house. The pipe burst on the third floor directly above the clerk's office and when Verne Norris opened his office, the water was coming down in torrents. All the records and valuable papers were moved to a place of safety as soon as possible, but some of the books were damaged. It is said many valuable records would have been destroyed if the break had not been found just when it was.

—Carl Tingle of Connersville visited friends here last evening.

SLIP OFF TO KENTUCKY

Miss Mina Crayton and Harold Reeves Married in Covington.

News of a secret marriage in the Blue Grass State was made public today. Miss Mina M. Crayton, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Crayton of Jackson township, and W. Harold Reeves of Knightsdown, slipped away to Covington, Kentucky, last Friday and were married there at two-thirty o'clock that afternoon. It is understood there was no parental objection to the wedding and the young couple arranged the little coup to surprise their parents. They are both well known over the northern part of the county.

BASKET BALL TEAM A FAMILY AFFAIR

Rastus Martin of Near Richland Has "Corner" on Market, Playing His Four Sons.

CASE OF "FATHER AND BOYS"

There has been family orchestras, family fights and various other family affairs, but such a thing as a family basket ball team is very seldom found. Down Richland way a family has a "corner" on the basket ball outfit. It is the family of Rastus Martin and the father and the boys are capable of putting up a great game. The Martin team is composed of the father and his four sons, Loran, Charles, Clyde and Ralph. The youngest, Ralph, is fourteen years old. Saturday night the Martin team played New Salem and after a hard fight lost by a score of 12 to 5. Mr. Martin, the father, did not play in this game because it is said he was not in condition.

BOYS MEETING IS NEXT ON PROGRAM

They Will be Entertained by the Rev. U. S. Clutton at First Presbyterian Church Sunday.

BAND AND ORCHESTRA MUSIC

There have been Mau's Big Meetings and there have been Women's Big Meetings, but Rushville is to have a novelty in the form of a Boys' Big Meeting next Sunday. It will be held at the First Presbyterian church at two-thirty o'clock and the Rev. U. S. Clutton of Indianapolis will be the speaker.

The Rev. Mr. Clutton is an authority on boys' work as he has had charge of this feature of ministerial work in Indianapolis. He has a lecture which is especially attractive for boys. It is illustrated with slight of hand tricks and is said to be very entertaining.

These conditions are put around the meeting: A man may attend if he promises not to crowd out any boys, or if he will bring a boy with him. But the meeting will be for boys primarily. All boys over ten years of age will be admitted.

An effort will be made to get the city band to play in front of the church before the meetings and also inside the church. The band music will be augmented by two boys' orchestras if it possibly can be arranged.

WOULD HARNESS OLD FLATROCK

Rushville Man Comes Forward With Solution of Water Problem Which is Impending Danger.

DRAW ON NATURAL RESOURCES

He Pointed Out River is Not Polluted Above Rushville—Use Wells in Summer.

The water question in Rushville is still a very important one, no matter if the temperature is hovering near zero and householders are concerning themselves with questions calculated to keep their blood from freezing in their veins.

The water question, of course, is a most important topic in the summer months, when the famine is impending in Rushville, and it has caused the city of Rushville some concern this winter, when the water should be plentiful. There has been a lack of water in most every household and especially was this lack noticeable when fire broke out.

It has been pointed out many times this winter that the city council should prepare now for the water famine which is sure to prevail next summer, and not wait until it is here to seek for the remedy. This question has made a deep impression on one man in Rushville who comes forward with a solution.

While Rushville is short of water for all purposes and the city is considering ways and means of securing a greater supply, sufficient to answer the needs for years to come, Flatrock seems to have been entirely overlooked. It has occurred to many people that this pretty stream could supply the needs of a city four times the size of Rushville during six or seven months of the year or say from October 15 to May 15—without in the least endangering the health of her citizens.

There are no sources by which Flatrock may be polluted above Rushville, and the city would be insured a pure and abundant supply of water. River water would not only be free from lime but would rather as freely as rain water. If our city water will eat out the "inwards" of a steam boiler in a short time, it cannot but be more or less harmful to the human anatomy.

Lime water is good for some complaints but not every person is afflicted with an acid stomach. Besides it is no fun in zero weather and six inches of snow to be forced to run over to the neighbor's well to get enough water with which to shave.

It is said that it would be feasible to build an intake near the old head-gates, erect a pumping station and stand-pipe on the hill east of "Campbell's Barn," and by connecting with the city mains at the new factory—only about 3/8 of a mile away—insure an abundant supply of wholesome water during the cold months.

In the meantime the city wells could be rested and the reservoir at the Water and Light plant be kept filled for any emergency. During the summer months the water from the city's wells could be used as a great safe-guard to health. All this would cost money? Yes, but something must be done. Present conditions are very unsatisfactory.

If you have sons who wear the soft double collar that will be worn all winter, you can make them yourself for very little expense.
Buy a linen collar pattern the correct size, or copy exactly a collar that pleases. One yard and three-quarters of heavy linen will make a dozen collars.
Interline them with coarse white muslin, taking care that the lining is cut the same way as the outside, so the collar will not stretch in different ways when it is laundered.

Novelty Boots.
In a line of high-class novelty boots there are silk tops with patent leather, champagne kid with patent leather, a new material, a new material, also with patent leather. Various silks are used, such as ottoman and a finer corded weave, and all the boots have from sixteen to eighteen real pearl buttons. ## THE CONCILIATION BOARD IN DANGER

Anthracite Mine Leaders Want to Abolish It.

AGAINST WISHES OF THE MEN

The Rank and File of the Mine Workers Have Found This Board a Great Help in Time of Need, but the Leaders of the Union Don't Like It Because It Does Not Recognize the Union as Such.

Indianapolis, Jan. 15.—Anthracite officers and delegates of the mine workers arrived here today to attend the convention which opens tomorrow, eager to take up the fight which John Mitchell, ex-president of the union, is expected to make at the meeting of the United Mine Workers of America. A year ago at this convention a resolution was passed compelling John Mitchell either to resign from the National Civic Federation or from the mine workers. Mitchell left the federation, giving up the salary of $8,000 a year which he was paid. Since then his friends have claimed that the convention was packed by the Socialist element of the union, which Mitchell has always opposed, in an effort to humiliate him.

Mitchell is expected to make a vigorous fight to have the resolution rescinded and the anthracite men will, with few exceptions, support him. The opposition will be led by Thomas Lewis, who last year was defeated for president by John P. White.

The convention will also consider the demands of the anthracite mine workers, and there is a belief here that the national executive board will modify them in the hope that thereby the operators may be induced to grant some concessions. The demands will not be presented to the operators until after the convention adjourns.

One of the chief demands of the anthracite miners is that the board of conciliation be abolished. Every operator who has seen believes in the board, which has so far settled satisfactorily more than 200 grievances. Miners say they personally should like to see the board continued. The miners thus approached gave as their reasons the same arguments advanced by the operators, the chief of which is that the board is made up of three operators and three mine workers and that if there is a deadlock on a decision the question is put up to C. P. Neill, chief of the bureau of labor at Washington, who then as umpire makes a decision that is final. The miners' wives and daughter agree with you that the board should go on settling disputes. Settling disputes in the board's way means—has meant for about nine years—the absence of long strikes, stagnation in other businesses, hunger and some times murder, loss of revenue to the mining companies, loss of property through violence, loss of wages to the miner, and at last the word over the grocery counter that the miner's family may have no more credit.

"Then why," ask folks not familiar with the situation, "if the operators want to continue the board and miners' wives and families almost unanimously ask that it go on, why do some of the most observant persons in the three anthracite labor districts expect that the board will not be continued and that a serious strike may be called within a few months?" One must remember that the miner has next to nothing—has nothing—to say whether the board shall be continued or not. The district presidents and other union leaders have almost all the say. And the leaders do not love the board of conciliation because with the board settling grievances, even a board made up of as many mine workers as operators, the settling of disputes is taken out of the hands of "the union."

"The board does not recognize the union as a union," is the sum of the complaints of the handful of leaders who tell about 175,000 mine workers what to do. The labor leaders, in other words, want to settle things by meeting directly the operators in their offices, the mine owners conferring with them as union leaders, not as members of a joint board. And if the board of conciliation did not exist the leaders could make their demands, and if these demands were turned down the leaders could harangue at a nearby hall that night or the next, call a big strike as they used to do, and tie up the region. For a majority of the 175,000 faithful usually have quit and fought and starved when the leaders told them to quit, a state of affairs that doesn't exist under the board.

About three years ago I was suddenly taken with an attack of backache and it steadily grew worse. I could hardly raise my foot from the ground and if I stooped, it really seemed as if my back was going to break. When someone advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and I was certainly surprised by their promptness in relieving me. In three days I was free from backache and felt better in every way. ## FICHU IN GRACEFUL DRAPE

Pretty Idea That Might Be Copied by Those Desirous of Having Distinctive Appearance.

On a charming little frock too new to have been imitated as yet the graceful fichu was draped rather openly to show a vest or "tucker" of fine white batiste, the unique openwork stripes of which, running up and down, were simple rows where threads had been drawn and the open spaces evenly double hemstitched in black working silk. The neck edge of this was rounded, and oval eyelets of the same black working silk were threaded through with a little twisted cord of black silk, the tasselled ends of which fell to the knot of the fichu.

The turnback cuffs were of the same hemstitched batiste, but with the upper edges also double hemstitched, giving a rather severe but extremely up to date touch. A little panel of the same was let in the skirt, revealed by the side draping of the gown fabric, and the waist line was outlined by a cordeliere of black silk.

This double hemstitching, which is even more effective and new, as used for dress trimming, than the single hemstitch so much favored by Parisian modistes, is by no means troublesome to work if only care be taken to take up the same number of threads with each new knotting. It is worked on the right side of the material, and when done in a heavy silk thread of contrasting color lends itself to many charming combinations. In white on white, however, it is especially adapted for the borders of the new fichus, and several rows can be wrought, one beside the other.

TAKING PICTURES OF THE BIRTH OF WORLDS

Amazing Observations Being Taken at Mt. Wilson.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 15.—Astronomers on the summit of Mt. Wilson are watching the formation of a new stellar system by means of a giant reflecting telescope, and with a faithful camera they are keeping a record of the progress of the birth of worlds.

One of the most remarkable photographs ever made has just been prepared by Dr. Edward A. Fath, with the aid of a huge sixty-inch reflector. The picture shows a spiral nebula apparently in the very act of crystallizing unnumbered new suns.

For days the astronomers have been watching the growth of the nebula which has gradually assumed a spiral form, indicating that it is rotating. It has also been observed to be separating into fragments, which are destined, it is thought, to become celestial bodies. With Dr. Fath at the observatory is Dr. Arnold Kohlschutter.

CAUGHT ON CROSSING

Shocking Fate Overtakes a Party of Six Churchgoers.

Philadelphia, Jan. 15.—Because the grade crossing over the Pennsylvania railway at Linwood avenue, Torresdale, was unprotected, early Sunday morning five persons were dashed to instant death, and another died without regaining consciousness a few minutes later. The dead were in a depot wagon on their way to early mass, when an express train going sixty miles an hour struck the wagon. The sextette consisted of five women employed as servants by two Torresdale families, and the driver of the wagon.

The dead: Charles Davidson, fifty years old, driver; Nellie O'Connor, nineteen; Rose Gallagher, eighteen; Mary Roddy, twenty; Bridget Malloy, forty-two; Agnes Garrity, twenty-two. Strange to say, the horse escaped unhurt and as soon as he felt the wagon wrenched from him, he dashed away, and after a run of two miles, was captured.

HITCHCOCK HAS A PROPOSITION

Wants Government to Take Over Telegraph Lines.

MR. TAFT IS TAKEN UNAWARE

From All Accounts the White House Was Wholly Unprepared for the Announcement Made by the Postmaster General That He Would Recommend to Congress the Purchase by the Government of All Telegraph Lines.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Government ownership of all of the telegraph lines of the country, to be run by the post-office department, is what Postmaster General Hitchcock has announced that he will recommend to congress. Mr. Hitchcock has dug up a statute enacted by congress forty or more years ago, under which he contends the government can take over the wire service of the country and conduct it as an adjunct of the post-office department. It is estimated unofficially that this gigantic undertaking would cost the United States government somewhere between $300,000,000 and $500,000,000.

To say that Hitchcock's announcement was a surprise to Washington is putting it mildly. The most interesting thing about it, though, is that it apparently was a great surprise also to President Taft. There has been no intimation that the president had authorized his postmaster general to make such a recommendation. Circumstances point to the fact that the White House is considerably concerned over the statement which Mr. Hitchcock had put out.

Recently reports have been circulated from sources that cannot be ignored that the president and his postmaster general are not in as close accord, especially on politics, as they once were. On at least one occasion recently Mr. Hitchcock was accused of taking a stand against the wishes of the president. This was at the meeting of the Republican national committee, when Hitchcock was charged with supporting southern Republicans in opposition to the naming of Harry New as chairman of the committee on arrangements.

If Mr. Hitchcock's statement in regard to the government ownership of telegraphs has been issued, as seem likely, without the indorsement of the president, it may lead to a further embarrassment. The first thing members of congress wanted to know when they heard of Mr. Hitchcock's statement was whether President Taft was advocating government ownership. These men will immediately turn to the president and he will be obliged to make his views known on the plan.

INCLINED TO DOUBT IT

Head of the Western Union Doesn't Think Much of Scheme.

Boston, Jan. 15.—Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, which controls the Western Union Telegraph company, said that it was the first he had heard of such a project and was inclined to doubt that any such recommendation would be made. Mr. Vail said: "I don't think the government will do such a thing. The expense the British government has been under in maintaining the telegraph should indicate that public ownership is not very promising, and I should not think our government would find very much to enthuse over if congress will read the last report on the cost over on that side of the ocean. In England the general revenue pays just about one-half the cost of conducting the telegraph lines. In other words the expense of handling every message exceeds the amount received by about 50 per cent."

Mr. Nally's Opinion.

New York, Jan. 15.—Edward J. Nally, general manager of the Postal Telegraph Cable company, said that he could not say offhand what the attitude of the Postal would be toward the proposed absorption of the lines by the government, but he personally did not believe that congress would favor Mr. Hitchcock's idea. "In my opinion," he added, "the country is not quite prepared for such a step."

Porcupine Band

Copyright, Underwood &amp; Underwood, N. Y.

This charming creation bears a faint resemblance to the "fretful quills of the porcupine," hence the name. The great demand this season for feather bands has been responsible for many strangely beautiful effects, and this is probably the best of them all.

At the Church Bazaar

Woman in Brown—How much are these dust caps?

Girl at the Booth—Forty-five cents, madam.

Woman in Brown—For goodness' sake! Mame, did you hear that? Why, that's the cheapest sort of stuff, and so easy to make!

Mame—Why, my sister makes them by the dozen.

Girl at the Booth—They cost me 35 cents apiece just for the goods. I didn't count anything for my time.

Woman in Brown—Oh, did you make them? Well, I suppose it does seem like hard work if you're not used to sewing. Come on, Mame, let's go over to the doll section.

Woman in Green—What are these things?

Girl at the Booth—Clothespin dolls. They are for children.

Woman in Green—They ought to be at the doll counter. Why aren't they in the doll booth, I wonder?

Girl at the Booth—They haven't room for them over there, so they sent them here. They sell for 20 cents.

Woman in Green—Twenty cents! For mercy sakes! Anybody can make them. Why, they're only clothespins! The idea!

Girl at the Booth—The hair is made of darning cotton and it takes a whole morning to make one.

Woman in Green—I'd give you ten cents for one. Are these things sachets? Are they all pink? Why haven't you some yellow ones? I don't care for pink.

Girl at the Booth—Whoever sent them in did not make yellow ones.

Woman in Green—They have them just like that down town. I think I'll buy down town. Which is the candy booth?

Child—Oh, mamma, look! Ain't these dolls cunning?

Mother—Yes, yes; be still, child. What do you ask for that big picture over there? The one with the woman and the little boy?

Girl at the Booth—That was donated by an art store. It was priced at $3.50. Isn't it pretty?

Mother—Rather, I'd prefer a life scene, though. Haven't you any fruit pictures?

Girl at the Booth—That's all we have. Would you like one of those calendars, Mrs. Drake?

Mrs. Drake—Oh, how do you do? Are you helping out? Do you like the work? Well, I suppose you wouldn't do it if you didn't like it. How much are the calendars?

Girl at the Booth—Fifteen cents. Shall I wrap it up?

Mrs. Drake—Dear, no. I don't know that I want it. Fifteen cents is so high. Why, those calendars are only tinted, and everybody does tinting nowadays.

Girl at the Booth—The calendars cost me ten cents uncolored.

Mrs. Drake—Oh, did you do them? Well, they aren't bad for tinting. What on earth is that child doing? Gracious, go away!

HOUSEHOLD SANITATION.

We hear much of the dust enemy and we should hear and heed the repeated warnings given us in regard to the evils of dust. The children in our schools today will know much better how to keep clean, sanitary houses than did our grandmothers, providing they follow the teaching. A grain of dust too small to be noticed by the unaided eye may be the abode of hundreds of microbes which can cause us trouble. The vacuum cleaner is doing good work to wipe out dust and keep us free from such exposure to disease, but where one may have the advantage of a cleaner hundreds of thousands are obliged to wield the broom and dustcloth.

When sweeping, it is best to have a damp broom and something like dampened paper or tea leaves to keep the dust from flying. One can by a little planning keep and dry the tea leaves, moistening them as needed.

In sweeping a carpet, a good plan is to sweep and take up the dust from each breadth or two, instead of spreading it all over the room.

It is much more sanitary, besides much easier, to have rugs and bare floors. The rugs can be taken outside and cleaned and the floors wiped, so that the room is free from dust.

The dust cloth is another useful article to consider; those patented affairs that have some kind of oil in the weave are good because they hold the dust and keep it from scattering back to the floor. When using an ordinary cloth, it may be dampened slightly with furniture polish and it will hold the dust much better.

Ventilation of the home is another important matter. Cold air is not necessarily pure, and our lungs need fresh, pure oxygen in order to make and keep pure, good blood. Those who sleep in unaired, unventilated bedrooms to save the fuel bill are piling up a good fat bank account for the family doctor as well as making future suffering for themselves. No body unfed by fresh air can withstand disease, and the little busy microbes get in good work on such a host.

NEW YORKER INVENTS HOUSE

In Two Sections, With Walls and Roof Hung on Hinges—Quite Easy to Keep Ventilated.

A rather elaborate poultry house has been designed by a New York man. It is in two sections, one of which slides upon the other and is small enough to be easily taken apart. The lower section has screens along its side walls, while the wooden walls are hinged at the top so that they can be opened at any angle desired, chains holding them in position. In this way ventilation can be obtained and the interior protected from rain or too much light. The upper section, which has a peaked roof, has a door at one end and a series of roosts arranged around the sides and ends on the interior. One-half of the roof is screened, too, and the top on this side is hinged so that it can be kept open or closed. The entire roof can also be slid on or off at will. This arrangement makes it easy to clean the house thoroughly in all parts and keep it well ventilated, thus eliminating insect pests to a great degree.

PERCH SPACE FOR CHICKENS

Small Hens Generally Require About Six Inches While Larger Birds Should Be Allowed Eight.

As a general rule, small hens should have about six inches of perch space while the larger hens should be allowed eight inches. In the winter they huddle closer together, but in the summer there should be plenty of room to allow them to spread out. Perches should be 12 inches apart and not closer than 15 inches to the wall or ceiling. Show birds, especially

Hinged Perches and Dropping Board.

Leghorns or similar types should be kept at a greater distance from walls and ceilings. Many good birds are spoiled by "brooming" their tails against the walls.

There are several methods of making movable perches. One of the most common is by hinging them to the wall at the back.

CHINESE WALL PAPER

It is said that the European notion of wall paper was imported from China. There its ornamental use for screens, partitions and the like was known as early as the fourth century. Authorities on this subject assert that it was Holland during her naval supremacy of the sixteenth century which first began to adopt and hang around the wall paper idea.

The early Chinese wall papers were printed from blocks, hand painted or stamped with infinite labor and exquisite art. They were made to order—produced in sheets of varying dimensions according to the uses to which they were to be put. The modern rolls of wall paper with a continuous duplicate design were unknown. It was not until the invention of the modern printing and stamping machines with cylindrical rollers that a continuous conventional pattern was favored.

As neither China nor Japan was a communicative country during the beginning of the commercial history of Europe these wall paper importations were few and far between and considerably at a premium. Yet they soon hit the European fancy as a good substitute for the arras and tapestries of the time.

Up to the end of the seventeenth century the imported product was prohibitive in price. However, and it was not until the middle of the eighteenth century that it was really a familiar thing on the market. When the methods for printing and stamping wall paper from blocks was introduced from China each nation was jealous of its neighbor in the wall paper trade and tried to keep its own process a secret.

Toward the end of the seventeenth century the English were the largest importers of the hand decorated Chinese wall papers, but only for a short time. As the demand increased they began to perfect a process of paper stamping and paper decoration to imitate tapestries, and with improved machinery soon cheapened their product and popularized it all over Europe. By the time of the Stuarts the arras of Shakespeare's era was beginning to disappear.

SOME FACTS ABOUT TREES

The tallest trees in the world are the Australian eucalyptus, which attain an altitude of 480 feet. The biggest are the mammoth trees of California, some of which are 276 to 373 feet in height, and 108 feet in circumference at the base. From measurements of rings it is believed that certain of these trees are from 2,000 to 2,500 years old. The oldest tree in the world is said to exist on the island of Cos, off the coast of Asia Minor. It is several thousand years old, but just how many no one has dared to say. The tree is carefully preserved by a wall of masonry round it, and the trunk is 30 feet in circumference.

But there are parts of trees in the form of useful timber which are even older, probably, than any on the stump. Beams in old buildings are preserved today which are known to be over a thousand years old. Piles driven by the Romans prior to the Christian era are perfectly sound today, and it is known that they have been immersed in water for upward of 2,000 years.

CAMPAIGN WILL OPEN JANUARY 25

Republicans Will Gather in Indianapolis Then For Annual Editorial Association Banquet.

SENATOR BROWN WILL SPEAK

Nebraska Orator Will Deal With Record of Republican Party And Especially That of Taft.

Indianapolis, Ind., January 15.—The Republican campaign of 1912 in Indiana is to open January 25, in Indianapolis, when United States Senator Norris Brown, of Nebraska, speaks at the banquet to be given by the Indiana Republican Editorial Association. Plans for the big banquet indicate that the affair is to be important politically, not only in size and score, but the significance of the keynote speech to be delivered by Senator Brown. Republicans from every part of the state are to be present at the banquet. The Republican editors purpose to see to it that the Republican workers are largely represented at the table. It will not be a dress affair. It will be entirely informal and the spirit of the occasion will be the good old fashioned, Republican rally spirit.

The editorial banquet is to be held the opening night of the midwinter meeting of the editorial association. It is to be expected that the foregathered Republicans will mingle and enjoy a love feast prior to the banquet itself. The next day the Republican editors will hold business sessions.

It is understood the speech to be made at the banquet will deal with the Republican party record and will present the facts as to the big things achieved by the Republican administration at Washington, D. C. In view of the fact that the Republican campaign in 1912 is to be made largely on the great record made by the Republican party in national management, and on the policies advocated by the Republican party throughout the years of its splendid progress, the speech of Senator Brown will have more than local importance. It is not too much to say, in fact, that the Republican editorial banquet in Indianapolis is to be an event of national importance politically.

Of chief interest to the Republican editors themselves is the assurance that the address to be made by Senator Brown they will obtain the mater-

LUMINOSITY OF FIRE-FLY

Alfred C. Egerton points out in his physics notes in "Knowledge" that Coblenz and Ives have made an investigation of the light emitted by the fire-fly (Photinus pyralis). They find that the radiations of the fire-fly are all in the visible spectrum—there appears to be very little ultra-violet radiation and no infra-red. The light is under control of the insect and does not appear to be stimulated by previous exposure to light, as with true phosphorescent substances. It is more probable that the light is due to oxidation of some complicated unstable fatty substance, the decomposition of which can be accelerated at will by the insect.

COMMISSIONER NORTHERN DISTRICT.

We are authorized to announce the candidacy of Earl H. Sears for commissioner of the northern district, subject to the decision of the county Republican nominating convention.

While we are keenly interested in Mr. Roosevelt, we decline to devote a column and a half to a description of his prowess in cutting down a birch sapling.

The Carnegie monument should commemorate some truly historic event, like getting the better of John D. on the ore deal, rather than merely getting rid of a few thousand libraries.

From the grouchy way Wall street talks, one would think that some of those brokers had lost as much as $4.98 by speculation, instead of spending their time supporting their families by honest industry.

When the Equitable company officers remove that billion of securities from the burned building, they should not take them home and put them under that loose plank in the back stairs for safe keeping.

It is said that Linus P. Meredith of Richmond who is a candidate for Sixth district chairman, desires above all to heal up the political wounds in his home county. If he succeeds in this, he will have accomplished a herculean task, especially if he should succeed with his home papers. Apparently they are hopeless cases and beyond redemption.

Gov. Wilson has declared war on the mosquito and the house-fly.

Dispatches forecasting a fifty per cent increase in the price of shoes, and predicting that a trust is to be formed to acquire control of shoe manufacturing, need not be taken very seriously.

Shoe manufacturing is one line in which control by combinations is almost impossible. Deceptions and imitations are so easy in handling leather, that it would be very hard to maintain in any fixed standard of grades.

A lot of big fellows might perhaps agree that certain grades should sell at a price large enough to give them good profits. But there are shoe factories scattered through the back towns of a dozen States, whose proprietors live the simple life and are content with small profits. They would rather sell under the combine price for a narrow margin, than take such pickings as might drift their way if they sold for combine prices.

There is no line of business in which the small manufacturer is more of a factor than in shoe making. He avoids the high salaries of the big concern, and personal attention to the wants of his customers balances the economies that come from doing a big business.

Twenty below! What next?

We hear much about the "coldest winter" in Rush county and every day a new winter takes the honors at the Annanias club.

We observe that most every member of the Paragaphers union has overlooked the announcement that a collar trust will be formed and the consequent wheeze that the public will get it in the neck.

We read on the "Whose the Biggest Liar?" page of one metropolitan newspaper that an Indiana man is going to hold a funeral for his cork leg. The Kokomo Tribune opines the men who have been its chief pullers will also be its chief mourners.

To be painfully exact we must notify the adherents of this colyum that they had better get out that old cotton blanket tonight. We reserve that warning for the use of our friends. Our enemies may freeze for all of that.

Last week we had Dante's "Inferno," alias "Hell in Five Reels." We have since been informed that it takes more than five reels to reach the abode of Mephisto. It must be accompanied by several tumblers, we heard the birdie whisper.

One of the greatest difficulties one finds in supporting a family, 'tis said, is the time required to read the articles on the cost of living which contain about as much information as this colyum.

Which, of course, is paying someone a very high compliment.

Twenty below! Your next.

WILL ARRIVE HERE FEBRUARY 1

Rush county fast horse breeders are to be given an opportunity next spring which they have never before had. The fastest pacing stallion of the 1911 season, Ess H. Kay, 2:00%, and with a race record of 2:00 1/4, will be in the stud at the Posey stock farm. The famous stallion will arrive here February first, according to an announcement made by Fred Dagler today. The news is told in a dispatch from New York City to the Cincinnati Enquirer which is as follows:

Ess H. Kay, 2:00 1/4, the fastest pacing stallion of the season of 1911 and a product of the once-famous Village Farm of the late C. J. Hamilin will be sent to Indiana for a stud season next spring. This was decided Saturday by a deal between E. J. Tranter of the Fasig-Tipton Company, part owner of the stallion, and Fred H. Dagler of Rushville, Ind., owner of the well known breeding establishment Posey Stock Farm, near that city.

The deal was also closed by the consent of Ben White, the well known East Aurora, N. Y., trainer, who is half owner of the horse and has him now in his training stable.

After a short stud season the stallion will be put in training for the purpose of reducing his present mark and, if everything goes right, he will make his first start at the Pittsburg Grand Circuit meeting, of which Mr. Tranter is the general manager.

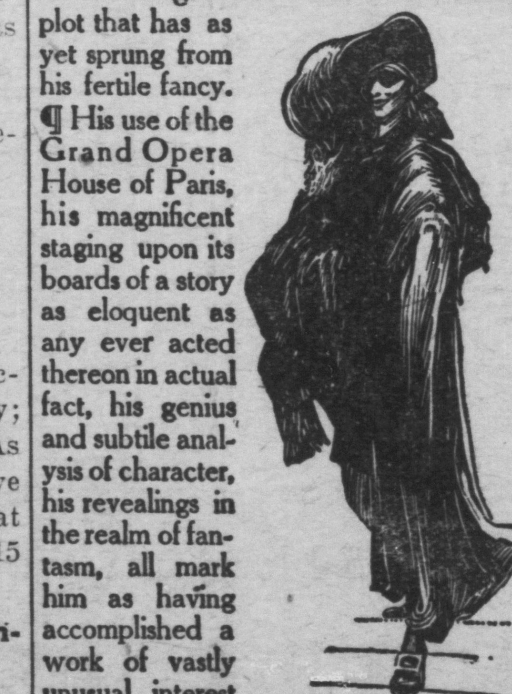

In breeding and in individuality Ess H. Kay is fully entitled to be classed among the best pacing stallions for stud service, and will no doubt be welcomed by the breeders of the Central West. The deal calls for a limited number of mares so as not to interfere with the stallion's future task of obtaining a record below the 2:00 notch.

Ess H. Kay reduced his race record of 2:01 1/4 made at Cleveland in 1910, in a start against time at Lexington last fall, driven by "Pop" Gears a performance which gave the veteran the fastest ride of his long career on the turf, his previous best being 2:01 behind The Harvester.

Word has been received of the death of Mrs. Hannah Pickering, age 78, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. W. Jones at Concord, Mass. Her death was sudden, being caused by heart failure. The deceased was formerly a resident of Spiceland and was well known there.

SERVICES WERE WELL ATTENDED

TALKED ON "LORD'S PRAYER"

Church Board Decided Not to Hold
Meetings This Week on Account of Weather.

The services at the First Presbyterian church yesterday were well attended and of special interest to all. The Rev. Mr. Meacham gave a very practical and helpful sermon in the morning on "Religion's man," the central thought being that a religion that failed to enlist the full powers of man, mind, soul and body, and to hold him firmly in its grip, not only on Sunday, but on every day of the week wherever his place of business might be; leading him to seek every opportunity and avenue for doing good to others and to do all that he can do for the extension of Christ's kingdom, is not worth while. Instead of thinking and talking so much of going up to heaven, man's religion should lead him to center all his efforts in everyday life towards bringing heaven down to earth by striving with all his might to rightly discharge his duty to his God and his fellow-men.

The plan which had been agreed upon with other churches of the city for holding meetings in the evening in each church during the two weeks following the week of prayer was reconsidered by the session of the church. It was the unanimous sentiment of this body that, owing to prevailing weather conditions for the present the meetings be postponed and that the funds necessary to meet the expense of these meetings be used to supply, as far as possible, the wants of those in need of help, because of sickness or otherwise, members of the church and others in need throughout the entire city.

In the evening W. A. Millis, president of Hanover college, preached an able and inspiring sermon, taking as his subject, "The Lord's Prayer," which he asserted was the most perfect piece of composition found in the Bible. "Prayer," said the speaker, "is but the expression of man's wants and its effectiveness does not depend upon beauty of language in expressing these wants but rather in its being the real yearnings of the heart. Prayer may be wholly inaudible and yet powerfully effective if it be the true yearnings of a heartfelt want. When man prays 'Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, etc.,' he must want it to come and be earnestly striving to have it come and to have God's will done on earth as it is in heaven if he expects his prayer to be answered."

Dr. Millis expressed himself greatly pleased to find church conditions in such good shape and forcibly impressed the need of earnest, faithful and consecrated service among all professed followers of the Master.

The sermon was greatly appreciated and Dr. Millis was made to feel so by the many words of congratulations and greetings given him at its close.

MEREDITH MAY BE UNAPPOSED

Richmond Man Appears to be Only
Man in Field For Sixth District
Chairman.

RISK NO LONGER ASPIRANT

Indications now are that Linus P. Meredith of this city will be unopposed in his ambition to become the Sixth district member of the Republican State committee, says the Richmond Palladium. The former sheriff who is noted for his hustling qualities and who never loses heart even when things are not looking so rosy as he might desire, has been going at breakneck speed in this, his latest political venture, and according to some of the Republican leaders in other counties of the district he has "everybody tied to a post."

Meredith bases his candidacy on his desire to heal up the political wounds in his home county and also throughout the district. He asserts that the "get together" movement has inspired him to enter the arena once more and according to the present appearance of things he will be guiding the destinies of the district Republican on and after January 31, the date of the district convention at Cambridge City. Will Risk of New Castle, who had been regarded as a candidate for the same place Meredith is seeking, will, it is now said, not be an aspirant. He likely however, will be chairman of the Henry county committee.

DEMORALIZES WHOLE FORCE

Extremely Cold Weather and Snow
Hampers Postman to Great Extent in Daily Rounds.

MAKE PATHS TO YOUR BOXES

Trains Late Delay Rural Mail Carriers and Incumbrance City Letter Carriers.

The combination of extreme cold and heavy snow has worked a great hardship on the postoffice employees of late, and has played havoc with their schedules in spite of their best efforts to preserve them. Hardly a single train has been on time for a week, and this, disorganizing the system as it inevitably did, extended its bad effect to the postoffice force, the carriers and the patrons.

One of the worst circumstances of the situation is the deep snow which as everyone knows who has tried, adds tremendously to the labor of walking, even when the pedestrian is unhampered by a heavy sack of mail. When the mail is added, as in the case of the city carriers, their task becomes a severe one indeed.

Usually the main streets are broken of snow each morning by special devices, and the less frequented streets are usually broken after a fashion, by the unwilling feet of pedestrians. This lightens the work of the carriers somewhat, but they encounter many drifts and many squares of untrodden snow in the course of the day, notwithstanding.

By a recent ruling of the postal department carriers are not compelled to wade through drifts to deliver mail. Also they are not allowed to work more than 48 hours each week, and it is highly probable that if the snow and the cold continues there will be more serious interruptions of mail delivery.

All patrons are notified that they can aid the carriers immensely by sweeping paths to their mail boxes or places of delivery. By so doing they will not only help the carriers, but themselves as well, for if this be generally done the delivery will be much more prompt than otherwise. It is urged by Postmaster Frazee that this precaution, which will cause but little trouble to every patron, be taken by everyone.

Rural mail carriers have not left the office on time for almost two weeks. The two morning mail trains have been late since the cold wave arrived and the carriers in the country have always waited at least an hour for mail on these trains. In some instances they have gone without the mail. The roads have been drifted with snow and they have undergone great hardships.

NEW FORMS AID EXAMINERS

Less Time is Required to Inspect the Books of Trustees.

William A. Dehority, chief of the State board of accounts, is receiving reports from field examiners who have examined the reports of township trustees for 1910 and 1911, the years the new township forms were in operation. The average time expended by the examiners on a year's records has been found to be about three-fourths of a day making the examination cost the township about $12. Almost without exception, Mr. Dehority said, the records of the trustees are found correct in every detail. The first examinations by the department, which had to do with two or more years with the old non-uniform records, required from two weeks to three months.

"Beatrice?" he guessed huskily. "Is it possible? . . . He promised me a surprise. . . . 'Twould have been like her to plan it with him—and 'tis quite possible she reached Rangoon before I . . . My wife!"

He stumbled hurriedly from the room and down the stairs, returning to the study where Sypher's body lay; tortured by mounting fears, he stood and looked blankly about him, at a loss where next to turn, if almost preternaturally alive to every sound or sight that might afford him a clue.

He fought against a suspicion that crawled like a viper in his brain. Had he, after all, been deceived in Sypher's niece, Miss Pynsent? Had that innocent charm of hers been a thing assumed, a cloak for criminal duplicity? Had she in reality been Des Trebes' accomplice? Had those clear and limpid eyes of youth, all through that voyage been looking forward to such a scene, to such a tragic ending as this? Could she have afforded the Frenchman the aid he needed to consummate his chosen crime?

For he was now ready to believe Des Trebes the prime mover in this terrible affair; he no longer entertained a shred of doubt that his enemy had traveled with him from Calcutta under the disguise of "De Hyeres." And he believed the man had planned this thing far ahead; else would he have surely taken some overt step to prevent O'Rourke from delivering the mummy to Sypher. He divined acutely that, despairing of any further attempt to win the jewel from him, Des Trebes had turned his wits to the task of stealing it from Sypher; somebody naturally much less likely to be an

But on the other hand, if the girl had not been Des Trebes' assistant—what had become of her? And what of her guest—the lady one of whose initials was B?

It was not inconsistent with Des Trebes' whole-hearted villainy that he should employ a gang of thugs sufficiently large to overpower and make away with bodily and in a body Miss Pynsent, her guest and the servants.

"Great God!" cried O'Rourke. "If it be in truth my wife!"

Without pause a thin but imperative thinnabulation broke upon the silence of the house of death. O'Rourke jumped as if shot. Somewhere in one of the other rooms a telephone bell was ringing. It ceased, leaving a strident stillness; but before he could move to find the instrument and answer the call, there rose a second time that moaning sob which first he had attributed to an impossible source, then, in the turmoil of his thoughts, had forgotten.

He waited, listening intently. The telephone called again and again subsided. Then a third time he heard the groan, more faint than before, but sufficiently loud to suggest its source. He moved warily toward the windows and out upon the veranda—hounded by the telephone. But that would have to wait; here was a more urgent matter to his hand. Between the long, insistent rings the moaning was again audible; and this time he located it accurately. It came from the lawn, near the edge of the veranda. He stepped off carefully, but almost stumbled over the body of a man who lay there, huddled and moaning.

"And another!" whispered the adventurer, awed. "Faith, this Pool of Flame . . ."

He was at once completely horrified and utterly dumbfounded. Nothing he had come upon within the bungalow seemed to indicate that there had been anything in the nature of a struggle prior to the assassination of Sypher. He had up to this moment considered it nothing but a cold-blooded and cowardly murder; the man had apparently been struck down from behind in total ignorance of his danger. O'Rourke had deduced that Sypher had risen from the desk to put the jewel in his safe; and that while he was so engaged the assassin, till then skulking outside the long windows and waiting for a moment when his victim's back should be turned, had entered and struck. . . . But how could he reconcile that hypothesis with this man who lay weltering and at the point of death at the veranda edge?

Indeed, he could not do so. But this victim, at least, was not yet dead; if he had strength to moan, he might yet be revived, at least temporarily.

Without delay, then, the Irishman grasped the man beneath the armpits, and, lifting him bodily to the veranda, dragged him into the library. Not until he placed him in the middle of the floor, beneath the glare of the lamp-light, did O'Rourke have an opportunity to observe his features. But now as he dropped to his knees beside the body, his wondering cry testified to immediate recognition.

The latest name to be inscribed on the long and blood-stained death-roll of the Pool of Flame was that of Paul Maurice, Viscount des Trebes; or, if there were life enough left in the man to enable him to insist upon his nom de guerre (the wanderer reflected grimly) Raoul de Hyeres.

"What next?" wondered O'Rourke. "What can the meaning of it all be now?"

With each development the mystery was assuming more fantastic proportions, becoming still more impenetrable and unsolvable. But he had no leisure in which to ponder it now, if Des Trebes were to be restored. And O'Rourke worked over the man as tenderly as though they had been lifelong friends, with skillful fingers estimating the nature and extent of his wounds, with sound knowledge of rough and ready surgery doing all that could be done to bring him back to consciousness.

At last Des Trebes sighed feebly; a spot of color, feeble, flicker, evanescent, dyed his cheeks; his breath rattled harshly in his gullet; his eyelids twitched and opened wide. He glared blankly at the face above.

"Des Trebes!" cried O'Rourke. "Des Trebes!"

His voice quickened the intelligence of that moribund brain. A flash of recognition lighted the staring eyes. The lips moved without sound.

"Des Trebes!"

"Ah, yes . . . the Irishman."

The whisper was barely articulate. O'Rourke put to his lips a cup of brandy diluted with a little water. "Drink," he pleaded, "and try to tell me what's happened to ye. Who gave ye these wounds? Try to speak."

"But . . . no . . . I shall not tell."

"But—good God, man! ye've been murdered!"

The white lips moved again; the adventurer bent his ear low to them.

"We . . . have both . . . lost . . . but you . . . your wife . . ."

"My wife!"

In a frenzy O'Rourke resumed his efforts to strengthen the dying man with spirits and water, but Des Trebes, with a final effort, obstinately shut his teeth, moving his head imperceptibly from side to side in token of his stubborn refusal.

So he died, implacable. In death the chiselled features remained set in a smile sardonic and triumphant. Dying, he gave no comfort to his foe.

For a little time longer O'Rourke knelt at Des Trebes' side, watching and wondering. Eventually he sighed heavily, shook his head, shrugged his shoulders and rose. And, rising, he perceived for the first time that he was no longer alone with the dead in that place.

Kneeling in silence by the vicomte's side he had till then been hidden from the inner doorway to the room by the drapery of the center table. And evidently it was this circumstance which had emboldened a man to slip in from the main hall and approach Sypher's desk at the back of the room.

As O'Rourke appeared he was conscious first of something moving in the room—a movement caught vaguely from the corner of his eyes. Then he heard a stifled cry of fright. He had already his revolver in his hand, so instant had been the obedience of his brain and body to the admonition of instinct.

He swung about with the weapon poised, crying: "Stop!" The other man was apparently trying to escape by the door to the hall, but was much too far from it to escape the threatened bullet. A jet of fire spurted from his hand. O'Rourke heard a crash and clatter of broken window-glass behind him. Without delay or conscious aim he fired and saw, still indistinctly through pungent wreaths of smoke, the figure reel and collapse upon itself.

The man had hardly fallen ere O'Rourke stood over him, with a foot firm upon one arm, while he bent and wrenched a revolver from relaxing fingers. Then, stepping back, he took stock of the murderous-minded intruder, and saw at his feet, writhing, coughing and spitting, a Chinese coolie—a type of the lowest class, his face a set yellow mask, stolid, unemotional, brutalized. Even then it betrayed little feeling; only the slant-set black eyes burned with unquenchable hatred as they glared up at the conqueror.

O'Rourke's bullet had penetrated the man's chest; and as he quivered and groaned through his sharpened teeth of a rat, a criminal stain spread on the bosom of his coarse white blouse.

Wholly confounded, O'Rourke shook an amazed head. A third element had been added to the mystery with no effect other than to render it more opaque and dense than before.

The telephone, its raucous voice now long since stilled, came into his mind, and he was minded to leave the room and find it, to summon aid.

Before he could move, however, a footfall on the veranda startled him, and his ears were ringing with a command couched in terse, curt English: "Hands up!"

CHAPTER XXXIII.

A man stood in one of the windows, his figure conspicuous against the night in cool white linen of a semi-military cut, his extended right hand training a revolver on the Irishman's head.

"Faith!" cried O'Rourke with genuine relief, "you're more welcome than a snowfall in Hades. Good evening to ye, and many of them."

"Hands up!"

"With all the pleasure in the world." O'Rourke elevated his hands. "I've two revolvers on me person," he volunteered amiably; "before ye go any further ye'll be wanting to take 'em away from me, I'm not doubting."

"From what I see, I quite believe I shall," agreed the Englishman, without relaxing his unprejudiced attitude. "At all events, keep your hands where they are, for the time being. What the deuce does this mean?"

"Tell me yourself and I'll make ye a handsome present," returned the O'Rourke composedly. "I've been adding me wits over it for the last thirty minutes, but neither rhyme nor reason can I read into it. But, see now: would ye mind relieving me of the arsenal I've been telling ye about, that I may rest me arms without fear of being punctured?"

The other laughed shortly and entered the room—a clean-limbed, sturdy, well-set-up boy of four or five-and-twenty, or thereabouts. He possessed, aside from an emphatic and capable manner, good looks enhanced by a wide good-humored mouth.

"You might help me out a bit, you know," said the boy briskly. "You've been so free with your information that I don't doubt you will place me still further under obligation to you by turning your back and depositing your weapons on that table. Of course, I needn't bore you by remarks upon the folly of false moves."

"'Twould be quite superfluous," replied O'Rourke, obeying with a fair and easy grace. "There now. What else may be your pleasure?"

"Move back three paces and stand still."

through his pockets. Then, with a "very good," the latter stepped between the table and O'Rourke and faced him.

"You've apparently told the truth thus far," he said. "Now what'd you know about this?" He waved a hand round the room. "Be careful what you say. I may as well inform you I'm Couch, lieutenant sub-chief of police for this district."

"Saint Patrick would be no more welcome," declared O'Rourke. "I was on the point of trying to get ye by telephone when ye saved me the trouble. How the devil did ye happen to drop in so opportunely?"

"I was coming upstream in the police launch, on the night tour of inspection, and stopped at the landing just below this—the grounds here run down to the river, you know—to telephone back to headquarters on business. The exchange operator suggested I look in here and see if everything was all right—said he'd been unable to get any response since nightfall. . . . Now?"

Carefully and concisely O'Rourke wove the events of the day into a straight narrative, starting with the delivery to Sypher of the Pool of Flame, touching briefly upon Des Trebes' part—so far as he understood it—and concluding with the death of the coolie. The sub-chief of police eyed him throughout with gravely concentrated interest, nodding his understanding.

"I see," he said slowly. "You make it clear enough. Moreover, you've convinced me. I didn't really believe from the first you'd had any hand in this ghastly mess, but I couldn't take chances, of course. You're at liberty to take up these pistols as soon as you please; in fact, I advise you to do so immediately. From what's taken place already, you may have need of 'em within the next ten seconds. . . . Now for this coolie. If he's able to speak, I'll get some information out of him."

"'Tis too far gone he is, I'm fearing."

"We'll soon find out." The Englishman bent over the man, who was now very quiet, but by the constant flicker of his cunning eyes, still conscious. A hasty examination told the investigator all he needed to know about the nature of the wound. "He'll not last long," said Lieutenant Couch, and began to converse with the local vernacular of Pidgin-English, about one word in ten of which was intelligible to O'Rourke. As he continued to speak the coolie's scowl darkened and he interrupted with a negative motion of his head. The sub-chief repeated his remarks with emphasis. For reply he got a monosyllable that sounded, as much as anything else, like an oath. Couch looked up. "He says he wants water, and I suspect he won't speak until he gets it. Can you—?"

O'Rourke fetched the half-empty carafe and Couch put it to the coolie's lips, permitting him to drink as much as he liked. But as soon as the bottle was removed the fellow shut his mouth like a trap and refused a word in answer to the lieutenant's demands and persuasions.

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

MY EXPERIMENTS WITH PAPER BAG COOKERY.

By Martha McCulloch Williams.

When Soyer's paper bag method of cooking was first brought to my attention by friends, who, rightly or wrongly, seem to have a high opinion of my abilities as a cook, I admit that I was skeptical of its practicability. Indeed, I was more than that—I was rather firm in my belief that it could not prove out. But I was induced to put the system to a trial—and, lo and behold!—the very first trial made me an enthusiastic follower of M. Soyer. Since then I have been doing all my cooking by the Soyer method, and each succeeding day more than ever convinces me that any woman, simply by following Soyer's general directions, and using that good common sense and care which are essential to all good cooking, can master the Soyer paper bag method of cooking in a very short time, and will find it a great boon both to herself and to all the members of her household.

Following M. Soyer's general directions for paper bag cookery, I speedily learned that there are sundry commandments to be observed while pursuing his method of cooking.

The first and greatest of these is to get the right bag, which is made specially for cooking, is paraffined, odorless even when crumbly-crisp, sanitary and to be had in sizes big enough to hold a Thanksgiving turkey, or tiny enough for a single chop.

Next, nearly as important, is to grease the bag inside liberally, using butter, lard, oil, drippings or a very fat rind of bacon.

Further, proportion your bag-size to what it is destined to hold. The closer the fit of bag and contents, the better, and the more even and compact the lay of the food, the less trouble in handling.

Use a footed wire broiler, or very open grid-iron, in the oven. All paper bag cooking is done in the oven. If a gas oven, it must be lighted eight to ten minutes before putting in the food and kept at blazing heat until the bag corners scorch lightly; then slacken the heat a third or even half throughout the rest of the time of cooking.

Be sure to lay the bags in the oven with the seam uppermost, especially if water has been put inside. Seams will steam open now and then—if the opening is downward there will be a leakage and much bother.

Finally, it is important to remember that all manipulation, seasoning and flavoring of food must be attended to before it is put in bags. There can be no stirring or tossing in the course of paper bag cooking. Nor must a bag be opened at any time during cooking; such action is absolutely unnecessary if directions are faithfully followed.

A PAPER BAG DINNER.

By M. Soyer, Chef of Brooks' Club, London.

Roast Beef, Round, Ribs, or Sirloin.—Grease well with drippings, but do not season. Put in bag, lay on a wire broiler, and cook in a moderate oven. For a three-pound joint allow forty-five minutes; for seven-pound, one hour and twenty minutes.

Lima Beans.—Take a quart of Lima beans, add two ounces of butter, four ounces of diced ham, a little sugar and salt, a good teaspoonful of flour, and a few sweet herbs to taste. Put in a paper bag with half a pint of water, seal up, and cook for an hour in a moderate oven.

Baked Potatoes.—Thoroughly wash twelve good-sized potatoes. Make a few small slits in them, but do not peel. Place in a paper bag, with one tablespoonful of water. Seal and cook thirty-five to fifty minutes, according to size.

Tomatoes.—Place six tomatoes in boiling water for twenty-five seconds. Peel, butter your paper bag, put in tomatoes with salt, pepper, a suspicion of sugar, and a small piece of butter. Put the bag on the broiler after sealing, and cook for twelve minutes in a hot oven.

Apples a la Duchesse.—Wash and dry ten large apples. Core them, put stick-cinnamon—only a bit—in the place of each core, and pour over them a tablespoonful of rum. Put in a buttered bag, and bake on the broiler thirty minutes. When quite done, dish up, remove the cinnamon, and fill the centers with jam—strawberry, raspberry, or apricot. Cover with stiffly whipped cream; sprinkle with chopped nuts, and serve, or set on ice till wanted. Use sweet apples and let them cool before adding the jam and cream.

Light the gas range eight minutes before beginning to cook, or open the draughts so the coal range will be hot. Put the roast on first, upon the lowest shelf. Put the apples upon the upper shelf, so as to leave room for the tomatoes beside them. As soon as the tomatoes are done, remove, set the bag in a plate, and stand where it will keep hot. Put the Lima beans in the vacant place—and when the apples are done, remove them and put on the potatoes. Thus, you will be able to have the cooking come out even, also to chill and season your apples before sitting down to table.

TARIFF AGAIN THE PARAMOUNT ISSUE

The President Prepared for Battle With Congress.

Washington, Jan. 15.—President Taft is now reconciled to the fact that there is no chance of obtaining the enactment of a federal incorporation bill at this session of congress. The president had given this legislation a place of equal prominence on his program with the tariff, but he has been informed by his supporters in congress that it will be impossible to do anything along the line of anti-trust legislation this session. The president will continue to urge the passage of a federal incorporation measure, but the efforts of his administration from now on will be centered chiefly upon the tariff question. The Democrats have insisted all along on making the tariff the principal issue in the coming campaign, and when President Taft devoted his first message of the session to the Sherman anti-trust law exclusively, they immediately jumped at the conclusion that he was trying to shunt the tariff to one side and obscure it with the anti-trust issue.

President Taft has been advised now to meet the Democrats squarely on the tariff, and he is prepared to do this. The issue that the president will carry to the people of the country, however, will not involve any particular tariff measure, past or present. It will be based on the general principle of a revision of the tariff founded on expert data, instead of the slipshod, snapdash method of the past. The Democrats have already given evidence of their intention to minimize in every way possible the findings of the tariff board, on which the wool schedule will be based, and the president is ready to meet them on this issue.

MURDER WILL OUT

Three Prominent Ohio Farmers Held to Answer For Horrid Crime.

Circleville, O., Jan. 15.—Three of the best known farmers in Ohio are held in the Pickaway county jail here on a charge of double murder, trapped after three years by a woman's confession. The arrests clear up the brutal slaying of Miss Fannie Hagengans, a wealthy spinster, Feb. 14, 1909. The confession also reveals that George Kohler, by whom the murder of the woman was supposed to have been committed, was instead one of the victims. "Soft spots" and the outbuildings of the farm are now being searched for Kohler's body and also that of any other victims.

Henry Hagengans, a brother of the slain woman and one of the trio under arrest, made a complete confession of the double crime to Sheriff Williams of Pickaway county shortly after his capture on his farm near Westerville. He said that he hired Edward and Davis McKinley, the former of Pleasant View and the latter of Harrisburg, to murder his sister and Kohler, paying them $1,000, so that he could get his sister's estate, valued at between $75,000 and $100,000.

It was Edward McKinley's own daughter who furnished the information that led to the arrest of her father, uncle and their alleged employer. Miss McKinley left home shortly after the murder of Miss Hagengans, going to LaCrosse, Ind. She came to Delaware yesterday and told the story of the double murder by the trio, declaring that her conscience troubled her so that she could not sleep and that she preferred seeing her father in jail to suffering longer such mental anguish.

Martha McCulloch Williams Declares Soyer System Is Latest Gift to Woman's Greatest Art.

Mrs. Martha McCulloch Williams, one of America's foremost cooking authorities, is a strong advocate of paper bag cooking. She has prepared a number of recipes for good dishes that will be printed in the series of articles on M. Soyer's famous system of paper bag cooking that we have arranged to run.

Mrs. Williams proclaims herself joyously a selfmade cook, and might proud of her ability in that line. Indeed she says she thinks it a shame that so many millions are wasted in the endowment of colleges, libraries and so on—the money would bring so much greater increment of happiness and human comfort were she endowed liberally enough to permit of her cooking all the time, and all the things she likes.

"I am keenly interested in public affairs—almost as much as in paper bags. But you couldn't chase me with the ballot—to give it to women would mean the spoiling of two excellent-good things. 'The profession of woman' I regard as the finest in the world—and sufficient to satisfy the most supreme talent. But in cooking lies my real enthusiasm. It is the one art that might tempt me into capital letters. And paper bags are the last best gift of it."

Mrs. Williams keeps house, and delights in dinners for six—which she cooks and serves herself. Thus what she has to say in this series carries the weight of experience.

 ON UNWARY VICTIMS

This Man Was Selling Indiana University Stock.

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 15.—Because a man was at Evansville selling or pretending to sell stock in a women's dormitory for Indiana university, President William Lowe Bryan found it necessary to issue a card, making it plain that the party was not authorized to represent Indiana university, as the state school is not engaged in erecting a dormitory. The matter was first brought to the attention of Dr. Bryan when he received a letter from the cashier of an Evansville bank, saying the man had given a check which was protested at Bloomington and the Evansville institution sought to collect the amount due on the check, from the university.

Later Judge Hogate received a letter from Evansville inquiring if the man was a representative of the Indiana university. The last letter said that the man had gone to Terre Haute, where he expected to continue his stock selling. It is not known here how much money he obtained at Evansville before the officials here were apprised of his actions. President Bryan declined to disclose the man's name.

Three Cars of a Fast Big Four Train Go Into the Ditch.

Kenton, O., Jan. 15.—Thirty-four persons were injured, five probably fatally, when a Big Four train was wrecked by a split rail four miles from Carey, shortly after noon Sunday. Eleven of those injured were brought on a special to the hospital here for treatment.

The train was several hours late and was making close to a mile a minute in its rush toward Cincinnati to make up lost time when the accident happened. The combination diner left the rails first, dragging two other coaches after it. The train bumped over the ties for 500 feet, and then two of the three coaches rolled and tumbled down a steep embankment to the ravine below. The overturned stove set fire to the debris, and it was not until aid arrived from nearby farms that the trainmen succeeded in extinguishing the fire and pulling the victims from the windows and doors of the shattered car.

Lee Indictment Sustained.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 15.—Holding that the murder of his mother, father and brother followed each other in such close sequence that they could be considered as one crime, Judge Spencer in the circuit court here refused to quash the indictment against William Lee on the ground that the indictment charged three murders as one offense. The case will be called for trial Jan. 23.

New French Cabinet.

Paris, Jan. 15.—The new ministry as formed by M. Poincare is well received by the newspapers generally and compared with the cabinet of Gambetta thirty years ago. M. Poincare is the first premier to be a member of the Academie Française since the Duke de Broglie in 1873. The prophets give the new ministry three months or three years to live.

Conductor Killed in Collision.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Jan. 15.—E. D. Tobias of Urbana, Ill., was killed in a freight wreck on the Big Four, three miles west of this city. Tobias was a freight conductor and was seated in his caboose when another train, running only a few minutes behind, crashed through the car.

Preparations for Abdication Are Now Under Way.

GUARANTEES OF SECURITY

When the Republicans Have Granted These Together With Arrangements For Continued Pensions of Manchu Princes, an Abdication Edict Will Be Issued and the Dowager Will Turn Government Over to Yuan Shih Kai.

Peking, Jan. 15.—Almost all the Manchu princes favor the abdication of the throne, and it is now only a question of providing security for their persons and property and providing them with pensions. When these matters have been arranged, an abdication edict will be issued in the name of the dowager empress and Premier Yuan Shih Kai will be left to continue the government with the machinery now in existence.

He will be instructed to co-operate with the Republican provisional government in forming a provisional coalition which will be able to restore order, obtain recognition from foreign governments and carry on the administration of affairs until a national convention has been summoned and a permanent government established.

There are several reports which seem to indicate an immediate advance of the rebels on Peking. On the other hand it is said that the Republican leaders at Shanghai have asked for another armistice for a fortnight and that it has been granted.

The lawlessness in the province of Shensi, where bandits seem to be running things their own way, is so terrible that many of the wells are choked with bodies of Manchu women who committed suicide to escape being assaulted. "Human life is not worth a chicken," writes one observer. "The Manchurian city—the northeastern quarter of the actual city—is a grave. Shot down, sabered, committing suicide, fleeing to be butchered elsewhere—with the exception of the women survivors, after weeks of slaughter, a population of 20,000 to 30,000 has disappeared."

PREACHER IN TROUBLE

Coroner at Pittsburg Says the Police Are Looking For Him.

Pittsburg, Jan. 15.—In explaining the inquest he is holding today relative to the death of Miss Elsie P. Coe, Coroner Jamison announced that the police are seeking Rev. W. B. McFarland, D. D., Ph. D., M. D., whom the woman named in her deposition as responsible for two bungling operations of a criminal nature which resulted in her death. The coroner also revealed that by request of District Attorney Blakely, the police of Chicago have under surveillance Roland McConnell, formerly connected with a local bank, but now an official of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company at Chicago. The girl named him as having been responsible for her condition prior to the operations, but in no way connected with the latter.

The Rev. Dr. McFarland is sixty years old, and is said to have a wife living in Cedarville, Tenn., where he now is at the head of the United Presbyterian mission schools. A close friend says he was graduated from both a theological seminary and a school of medicine. After coming to Pittsburg, Rev. McFarland secured a position in the public schools, and in June, 1909, was at the head of the academic department of the high school in which Miss Coe worked.

TEN THOUSAND MEN

Parade Through Streets of San Francisco Armed With Bibles.

San Francisco, Jan. 15.—Headed by an escort of mounted police and a band of thirty pieces, 10,000 men with Bibles in their hands marched through the streets of the city Sunday afternoon, while thousands of people stood on the sidewalks and watched the impressive sight. It was the most remarkable demonstration ever seen in this city. At the head of the line marched Gypsy Smith, the famous London evangelist, and H. J. McCoy, the veteran general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in this city. The parade was the result of meetings now being held here by Evangelist Smith, and it was a success far beyond the expectation of the organizers.

Didn't Know It Was Loaded.

Laporte, Ind., Jan. 15.—An accidental shooting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Henry may result in the death of Mrs. Anna Lanzo, their daughter. James Gilroy, nephew of Mrs. Lanzo, was cleaning a rifle when it was accidentally discharged, the bullet striking Mrs. Lanzo between the shoulders and passing through her body. Gilroy did not know the gun was loaded. Mrs. Lanzo is not expected to live.

LEGISLATION WILL NOT HELP

home who would pray on his wife and daughter or one who has had some religious training in connection with his professional education. This was only an example of scientific education, he said, which is common today. President Millis said a man must undergo a change of heart first. He said it is possible to take a chicken thief, give him a scientific education and he will steal no more chickens; but he will steal nevertheless under any conditions he finds himself unless he suffers a change of inward self.

President Millis alluded to the present-day complaint against corporations and the industrial unrest. He said the same rule applied to "Big Business" as to any other evil. The larger the corporation, the larger the evil, President Millis said, and the worse the corporation, the worse the lawyer at the head of it. He deplored that business men are no longer needed in the management of big corporations, but that they turn them over to lawyers. They are crafty lawyers, however, he added.

President Millis came up to the period of intellectual growth when the idea was education was the cure for all evils and he declared education is all right so far as it goes, but it does not go far enough. We are not all head and hands and feet and body, he said, but part heart, and that is the fundamental part.

"Now I come," continued Pres. Millis, "to the period of intellectual growth when the theory was popular that to be rid of pauperism was the sole solution of the common social evils. But poverty is not the cause of pauperism. A pauper is a man whose sparker has quit working. (The audience of men put on some broad smiles and several laughed aloud.) I see there are a few automobile owners here," added the speaker.

"Once a pauper always a pauper," is the theory of President Millis. He asserted that pauperism is an inherent quality and one which is not brought on by poverty. This sort of man, he said, had to be worked over from the inside, had to have a change of heart, before he can accomplish any good.

"Now I come to this last spasm," added President Millis. "That period of growth when the idea is permanent that reform can be gained only through legislation. There is a large element of value in the things we do and have done by way of legislation, but the question is resolved back to the same thing: the social problems will not be solved until men suffer an inward change.

He pointed out there are eight institutions in Indiana, this land of free thinking and free schools, to care for the insane that are found within its borders. He declared he wouldn't have undone what the State has done to cure and care for its insane, but he would do more. He asked what the State of Indiana is doing to prevent more men from going insane.

"We have legislation on the liquor problem, but the evil will never be cured until men's hearts are right. So long as one man will take money from his brother because he is weak, the liquor traffic will be an evil and it will never be any better until men's hearts are worked over. No man is safe until he is worked over inside."

He said a bank is no safer than the personal character of its president and so it is in this life, a man is no safer than his heart.

He asked how many jaw bane there were in the audience and then considered the amount of work for the betterment of social conditions that could be done by the men in that audience Sunday. He declared that if every man, woman and child in the United States were converted all social problems would be solved.

"Jesus taught the plainest prose," said Mr. Millis in closing. "He said I am the way," and he taught that salvation is the solution of all social problems in the past and present."

A quartet composed of Walter Wilson, E. B. Thomas, Dr. F. R. McGinnis and Omer Trusler sang and was very heartily applauded. Lincoln Gaffin presided and introduced the speaker.

GWYNNEVILLE IS VISITED BY FORGER

David McIntyre is Looking For Sherman Parker of Near Greenfield Who Passed Bad Paper.

PROSECUTION MAY FOLLOW

The Gwynneville community has in its hands a forgery incident somewhat out of the ordinary, the accused being Sherman Parker, aged 21 years of near Greenfield, who had been working until recently for Jesse and Leroy Dyer on their farm south of town. Just now Parker can not be located. Last week he appeared at the David McIntyre store at Gwynneville and asked Mr. McIntyre to cash a small check for him. The check was in the sum of $1.50 and was made payable to Mr. Parker and signed by Jesse Dyer. Knowing Mr. Parker had been employed by Mr. Dyer, Mr. McIntyre had no hesitancy in cashing the check as the young man's excuse was that he did not wish to wait for the bank to open. Later when the check was presented at the bank it was found to bear the date of December 4, 1912. This discovery excited suspicion and Mr. Dyer was communicated with. He said he had not given any check to the young man and that it was very likely a forgery. Mr. McIntyre has made diligent inquiry regarding the whereabouts of Parker but has not been able to find him. It is said the offender is inclined to trickery and that Mr. McIntyre will prosecute the case unless his loss is immediately made good.
